

LITIGATION & DISPUTE RESOLUTION:

Supply Chain Contract Health Check

Building supply chain resilience

Recent threats to supply chains have been caused by a series of internationally disruptive events that were unforeseen. Businesses can help build resilience against supply chain disruption through obtaining clear visibility on whether appropriate contract terms underpin their supply chain activities.

Invest in reviewing and updating your contractual protections following a period of international disruption to supply chains to ensure that your contract terms are robust and flexible.

Our supply chain contract health check

Our health check will assess risk and stress-test contracts. A tailored report will identify legal risk and suggest mitigation strategies where appropriate to ensure the legal arrangements underpinning your supply chain activity are robust and fit for purpose.

The Process

Work with you to identify and collate all supply chain contracts

Identify rights and obligations you should be aware of when making commercial decisions

Discuss with key stakeholders the risk of any informal waiver and variations arising from undocumented deals

Deliver your report, with recommended actions

We will do this for a fixed price
