

BANKING SELECTED 2022 DEALS

We advised a club of three banks led by Lloyds on an £85m multi-currency revolving facility for Johnson Service Group (JSG) to support and provide a solid platform for future growth

JSG provide textile rental services and related services across a range of sectors throughout the UK. The company are the leading supplier of work wear and linen services to corporates and over 37,000 SME's.

Warehousing borrower

We advised a client in relation to its £125m wholesale finance and securitisation arrangements.

This is just one example of the work our alternative funding team has carried out. Among such alternative sources, wholesale funding holds a crucial position in a lender's funding structure.

We advised Virgin Money on its loan to communications specialist, Cellhire to allow Cellhire to continue its investment in growing the business globally.

York-headquartered, Cellhire provides mobile voice and data and Internet of Things (IoT) communications service. The company works with a host of UK and international partners. Recently, the business has worked with China Unicom at the Beijing Winter Olympics and has established a commercial agreement with Qatari MNO Ooredoo for the FIFA World Cup.

We advised Endless-backed Findel on a £18m innovative sustainability loan.

This was the first of its kind in the education supplies sector.

Based in Hyde, Findel will use the £18m facility from Santander to support its medium-term growth plans whilst driving its environmental, social and governance (ESG) commitments

We've been delighted to support Findel and Endless on this innovative form of funding.

We advised property investment and development company, Evans Property Group (Evans), on a £200m refinancing of a loan agreement with NatWest and Barclays.

Privately owned Evans is a long established private property investor and developer. The company is a major investor in the Leeds and wider Yorkshire region, with a property portfolio consisting of Grade A investment properties with secure long leases and a substantial development land bank

The refinancing will help Evans to continue their strategy of investing and developing a wide range of properties and sites across the UK.

We advised Lloyds in relation to a confidential invoice discounting line and a term loan to their long standing client to support their future growth plans.

We have been delighted to advise Lloyds on this transaction as we are continuing to see that asset based lending is growing in its importance as a mainstream corporate financing tool.
